AVM Unveils New National Headquarters in Simi Valley, Ca.

Simi Valley, CA. – July 24, 2006 – AVMetrics, LLC, an independent AVM testing, validation and compliance company, opened the doors to its national headquarters in Simi Valley, CA. The integration of our individual offices and infrastructure into a headquarters environment was a lengthy process but well worth the investment. One of the most immediate benefits is that it allows us to offer training to our clients with a “Hands on” approach as our database administrator and technical staff are readily available to walk our clients through the intricacies of the AVM validation processes. Another advantage is that it has allowed us to “retool” and upgrade our database servers and networks to keep pace with our rapid growth over the last year.

AVMetrics, LLC, headquartered in Simi Valley, CA, provides clients with the technical and subject matter support necessary to effectively use alternative valuation products, specifically, automated valuation models. AVMetrics’ testing and auditing products, combined with experienced consulting and demonstrated domain expertise, help mortgage lenders navigate the intricacies encountered in the selection and implementation of commercially available products for collateral risk assessment, evaluation and fraud analysis.
